

The Top 100 Golf Communities - and How Much They Cost

By Mulligan Stu

Posted on Mon Jan 14, 2008 at 09:55:36 AM EDT

I get Travel & Leisure Golf magazine because ... well, because why not? I'm a blogger, and I've got to get my ideas somewhere. You don't expect me to come up ideas on my own, do you?

In the latest issue, the Jan.-Feb. issue, they have a ranking of the "Top 100 Golf Communities" in America. And in their little capsules on each of these communities, they include how much it costs to buy into each.

What is the least you'll have to pay to live in one of T&L's Top 100 golf communities?

Remember that old Steve Martin routine, "You can be a millionaire and never pay taxes"? It began: "You can be a millionaire and never pay taxes! Yes, you can be a millionaire and never pay taxes! Step 1: Get a million dollars."

Well, you can live in a Top 100 golf community! Step 1: Get $240,000 dollars! Which, when you think about it, is pretty good. There are many places in America where $240,000 won't buy you much house, whether on a golf course or not.

Although we should point out that the lowest lows cited below definitely "only" get you a townhouse or condo, rather than a house, in most cases. The low price at Lake Las Vegas, for example, was $375,000, but the high was $30 million.

Note that the lowest lows and highest lows cited below are not minimums, but are the lows gathered from among recent sales in each community. Also, these are home prices only - club dues are extra (and add a lot).

Lowest Low Prices

Highest Low Prices

- Mayacama, Santa Rosa, Calif. - $5.2 million
- Yellowstone Club, Big Sky, Mont. - $4.9 million
- Hualalai, Kona, Hawaii - $4.6 million
- The Vintage Club, Indian Wells, Calif. - $4.2 million
- Santa Lucia Preserve, Carmel, Calif. - $3.7 million
- Sherwood, Thousand Oaks, Calif. - $3.6 million
- The Bear's Club, Jupiter, Fla. - $3.5 million
- The Estates at Bay Colony, Naples, Fla. - $3.3 million
- Kuki'o, Kona, Hawaii - $3 million

High

- The Vintage Club, Indian Wells, Calif. - $4.2 million
- Santa Lucia Preserve, Carmel, Calif. - $3.7 million
- Sherwood, Thousand Oaks, Calif. - $3.6 million
- The Bear's Club, Jupiter, Fla. - $3.5 million
- The Estates at Bay Colony, Naples, Fla. - $3.3 million
- Kuki'o, Kona, Hawaii - $3 million