The Choirboy's Secret

The American Boychoir School in Princeton was a twisted sanctuary for the sexual abuse of children. Why is one of America's most famous lawyers taking it on?

He was one of the victims.

Napa Valley

Wine country's unusual delights—food, art, fine fermentation—are improved upon with new shops, upgraded digs, and surprising varietals.

Obsessive attention to detail is Cliff Lede Vineyards' standard operating procedure: The first Cabernet Sauvignon from its top-tier Poetry line, released last fall, brought in $100 a bottle and sold out in one month. Imagine what that same mind-set will do when applied to the fledgling winery's new Poetry Inn, opening at the end of this month. With a rare hillside location, the five-room inn offers mesmerizing views of the vineyards stretching west toward Yountville and the verdant mountains beyond. Plush suites are done in a cozy craftsman vernacular—leather, wood, earth tones, fireplaces (from $575; 707-944-0646).
